Intellectual Property
Litigation

Mark serves as Co-Chair of the firm's Intellectual Property Practice and has a national IP practice helping clients to value and defend their IP and other technology assets. As a seasoned litigator, he has represented a range of clients across various industries including medical devices, athletic goods, LED lighting, food service, consumer products, and pharmaceuticals. Mark's litigation experience spans federal district courts across the country, the Federal Circuit, and the International Trade Commission.

Recognized in the WTR 1000 and IAM Patent 1000, Mark also provides strategic advice on intellectual property portfolio management, counseling, and licensing. His guidance ranges from obtaining IP rights through the USPTO and Copyright Office to implementing proactive measures that prevent infringement and maximize the value of his client's intellectual property.

Among a range of representations, his recent successes include:

- Obtained a permanent injunction, upheld on appeal to the Third Circuit, and $6.5 million in wrongful profits in a trademark case on behalf of a national home appliance and consumer electronics brand in the District of Delaware
- Awarded summary judgment of invalidity on over 45 patent claims asserted against a New Jersey medical device manufacturer by its chief rival in the Southern District of California
- Secured two preliminary injunctions for a secured creditor to prohibit the dissipation of patent rights involving FinTech in the Western District of Washington and the Northern District of

Illinois

- Won a jury trial on willful patent infringement, validity and copyright infringement on behalf of an international medical device manufacturer in the Southern District of New York, which was upheld in relevant part on appeal to the Federal Circuit
- Excluded all potential damages in a trademark infringement suit on behalf of a restaurant and food services provider in the District of Connecticut
- Affirmed on appeal to the Federal Circuit a prior grant of summary judgment in favor of an international pharmaceutical company, in a precedent setting case receiving national attention, that the USPTO was miscalculating patent term adjustment awards on dozens of patents

As a thought leader in his professional communities, Mark is a past President of the New Jersey IP Law Association and frequently writes and speaks on IP issues. He also holds several positions in the golf industry, including serving as a member of the Executive Committee and Board of Trustees of the New Jersey State Golf Association.

While in law school, Mark was Research Editor for the Rutgers Law Review and a judicial intern for the Hon. Madeline Cox Arleo, then-U.S.M.J. in the District of New Jersey.
